SECTION 1:
SBA STATE AND
DISTRICT OFFICES

The SBA operates more than 100 State and District Offices throughout the country. SBA offices provide a wide range of assistance to small businesses with up to $5 million in assets. Aid includes business education, funding programs, federal contracting assistance, local help, business startup guidance, licensing help, and much more.

The following listing of SBA Offices is arranged alphabetically by State or District Office name. Names typically begin with the name of the state or city where the office is located.

Each entry provides name, address, telephone, and fax number.

United States Small Business Development Centers

What is a Small Business Development Center (SBDC)?

The United States Small Business Administration's Office of Small Business Development Centers promotes entrepreneurship and small business growth through its national network of Small Business Development Centers (SBDCs).

Contents of this Directory

SECTIONS 2 AND 3* comprise the Small Business Development Center Directory. These Sections list more than 1,000 SBDCs, including all 50 states and U.S. territories, in alphabetical order by state. Each entry contains SBDC name, address, telephone, email, and website.

Please note the SBDC Directory is divided into two sections:

SECTION 2* lists SBDC HEADQUARTERS OFFICES,
BY STATE.

SECTION 3* is a DETAILED LISTING OF ALL SBDC CENTERS, BY STATE AND CITY.

About the Office of Small Business Development Centers

Following is the SBA's description of the Office of Small Business Development Centers and the programs they manage.

Mission Statement

The Mission of the Office of Small Business Development Centers is to promote entrepreneurship, small business growth and the U.S. economy by providing the critical funding, oversight and support needed by the nationwide network of Small Business Development Centers.

The U.S Small Business Administration (SBA) administers the Small Business Development Centers Program to provide management assistance to current and prospective small business owners. SBDCs offer one-stop assistance to individuals and small businesses by providing a wide variety of information and guidance in central and easily accessible branch locations.

The program is a cooperative effort of the private sector, the educational community and federal, state and local governments. It enhances economic development by providing small businesses with management and technical assistance.

There are now 62 Lead Small Business Development Centers (SBDCs) -- one in every state (Texas has four, California has six), the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, Samoa and the U.S. Virgin Islands -- with a network of more than 900 service locations. In each state there is a lead organization which sponsors the SBDC and manages the program. The lead organization coordinates program services offered to small businesses through a network of subcenters and satellite locations in each state. Subcenters are located at colleges, universities, community colleges, vocational schools, chambers of commerce and economic development corporations.

SBDC assistance is tailored to the local community and the needs of individual clients. Each center develops services in cooperation with local SBA district offices to ensure statewide coordination with other available resources. Each center has a director, staff members, volunteers and part-time personnel. Qualified individuals recruited from professional and trade associations, the legal and banking community, academia, chambers of commerce and SCORE (the Service Corps of Retired Executives) are among those who donate their services. SBDCs also use paid consultants, consulting engineers and testing laboratories from the private sector to help clients who need specialized expertise.

Funding

The SBA provides 50 percent or less of the operating funds for each state SBDC; one or more sponsors provide the rest. These matching fund contributions are provided by state legislatures, private sector foundations and grants, state and local chambers of commerce, state- chartered economic development corporations, public and private universities, vocational and technical schools, community colleges, etc. Increasingly, sponsors contributions exceed the minimum 50 percent matching share.

What the Program Does

The SBDC Program is designed to deliver up-to-date counseling, training and technical assistance in all aspects of small business management. SBDC services include, but are not limited to, assisting small businesses with financial, marketing, production, organization, engineering and technical problems and feasibility studies. Special SBDC programs and economic development activities include international trade assistance, technical assistance, procurement assistance, venture capital formation and rural development. The SBDCs also make special efforts to reach minority members of socially and economically disadvantaged groups, veterans, women and the disabled. Assistance is provided to both current or potential small business owners. They also provide assistance to small businesses applying for Small Business Innovation and Research (SBIR) grants from federal agencies.

Eligibility

Assistance from an SBDC is available to anyone interested in beginning a small business for the first time or improving or expanding an existing small business, who cannot afford the services of a private consultant.

Additional Information

In addition to the SBDC Program, the SBA has a variety of other programs and services available. They include training and educational programs, advisory services, publications, financial programs and contract assistance. The agency also offers specialized programs for women business owners, minorities, veterans, international trade and rural development.

The SBA has offices located throughout the country. For the one nearest you, consult the telephone directory under "U.S. Government", or call the Small Business Answer Desk at 1-800-8-ASK-SBA or (202) 205-7064 (fax). For the hearing impaired, the TDD number is (202) 205-7333.
